About this Corrigendum

It's clear, I'm not perfect.

In researching, writing, editing and producing The Beatles Recording Reference Manuals, I made some errors. Some of these errors were of omission, some were of misinterpretations of information that I was challenged on and found my conclusions wanting, and others were bothersome copy/paste issues that were not caught in the proofing stage of book production.

Regardless of their type or nature, I take responsibility for them all.

I know these books are not cheap to own, and I also know that Beatles fans interested in this material are some of the most detail-oriented fans in the world. You don't want to pay for the same book twice, and you want the most accurate and up-to-date information possible regarding the work of the band in the studio.

This corrigendum is intended to provide you with all the content that changed between the first version of Volume 5 and its current edition. I have included individual song narratives, diagrams, and sessions where information was modified due to one of the error types noted above. I have not included content where typographical errors occurred, and global changes (small, but essential corrections that would span multiple sessions) are noted in their own section, as opposed to on a session-by-session basis.

These pages can be printed and inserted into your volume.

Thank you to all the fans and scholars who have continued to help me make these books as good as they can possibly be. I am forever grateful to your contributions and critical eyes.

Global and minor changes

- For the majority of Let It Be recordings, engineer Glyn Johns routed Starr's drums to two tracks (most likely track 6 for the core drum kit and track 7 for the bass drum and right-side overhead/over tom mic. The track was usually shared by a guitar performance, typically Lennon's). The revised diagrams that follow account for this change in information.
- Old Brown Shoe – Harrison is noted as playing an acoustic Gibson J-200 on the backing track. He actually played one of his four electric guitars (either his 1961 Fender Stratocaster with synchronized tremolo ["Rocky"], 1965 Epiphone ES-230TD, Casino with Selmer Bigsby B7 vibrato, 1957 Gibson Les Paul Goldtop ["Lucy"], or 1968 Fender Rosewood Telecaster prototype). An updated diagram follows.
- A review of new photographic evidence from 2021 revealed that for miking the grand piano at Apple Studios, either the AKG C30A or AKG C30C was used. It was previously noted that a Neumann M49 was used for this purpose, based on its use in rehearsals at Twickenham, and lack of additional information.
